Kiwanis Observes Education Week

The Kiwanis Club at its noon meeting today observed education week when the education committee in charge of the Rev. William J. Johnson had charge of the meeting.

Charles A. Lasher and Richard Charnock gave an interesting account of the recent convention held at Syracuse where they represented the Kingston Kiwanis Club.

The attendance prize of the day was awarded to Frank B. Matthews. The club welcomed Willis Haines as a new member with due and proper Kiwanian ceremony.

Miss Virginia LoeKamp, director of the Schubert Choral Club of the T. W. C. A. is an honorary Kiwanian in her home city, and the club decided to send a large delegation to the club concert at the high school auditorium on Monday evening.

OWN FOLKS' LEGEND IS OLD FAVORITE

Really Survival of Longing for Clan Identity.

Here is the favorite American legend of ancestry:

"There were three brothers of my family who came to this country; one settled in (say) Massachusetts, one in New York, and one in Virginia." It is fairly safe to say that seven out of ten persons are firm believers of this legend, particularly those who are not able to tell who their great-grandfathers were.

Now suppose we consider the likelihood or unlikelihood of this legend. First, we note that the brothers are always three in number. They are never two, a much more likely happening. Nor ever four or five; always just three. Now, is it likely that the pioneer ancestors of seven out of ten persons were just three brothers?

Secondly, we note that these three settled in three then widely separated colonies—separated widely not only in point of travel, but in social customs, characteristics and means of making a living, to say nothing of religious beliefs.

The unlikelihood of such a step in seven cases out of ten is clear when three brothers come over now—if they ever do. They stick together and make a spot where there are others like them in calling, in speech, in customs. In these days America is all one people, one country, and easy to get about in. But in those days there were no Americans (except the Indians); there were scattered settlements of varying nationalities, hundreds of miles apart. And settlers were feared to go far, not only because they were new to the land, but it was new to everybody else.

So much for the likelihood or unlikelihood of the legend. Now for the facts.

Henry H. Sillies, one of the most eminent of American genealogists, puts it thus: "It is perfectly wonderful what a vitality this 'three brothers' story has among people. Yet it is an almost proven fact that among the thousands of early immigrants of the Colonial period such cases could be easily numbered on the fingers of one pair of hands."

How did such tradition originate? Doubtless in the nature of the human mind. The mind of man must have an explanation for new facts. Perhaps 100 years ago some one in Massachusetts learned that there were people of his name in Virginia, and possibly in New York. "Same name! Must be some of our folks!"

It is that "must be," so strong in the longing for tribal or clan identity, that by the next generation became a family tradition of fact. For a tribal or clan feeling has been one of man's strongest characteristics for thousands of years.

And the three is but the age-old magic number with which man endows the unknown and the mysterious. From the three Wise Men of the East, and the three of Gotham, to the three and the 33 degrees in Freemasonry.—Boston Globe.

Cholera Follows Drought

Recent droughts in the interior of China have brought epidemics of cholera, according to information received here. A hundred deaths a day for almost a week are reported from Chong-chia, Hunan province, and the outbreak shows no sign of diminishing. From Zohidoo district of Hunan 1,500 deaths have been reported, with fatalities recorded in Szechuan and Chang-chow. The Chinese Red Cross in these areas is doing what it can to relieve the situation, but the task is almost insurmountable. With the epidemic exists a state of dire famine and thousands are suffering. Crowds of refugees are flocking to the towns, carrying their bundles and belongings. As fast as they reach the refugees the cholera pack them on the cars—open trucks—and send them to Shanghai and other ports.

Forest Turned to Stone

The most marvelous forest turn to stone has been found by two hunters in a remote valley of the Blue Ridge region nearly 100 miles from the nearest railroad at Warrenton, Pa. Petrified tree trunks of 100 to 150 feet long standing and growing of a size, diameter and length unparalleled in the world, had been found. One of these was 100 feet long. The valley in which this stone forest was found is split by a deep canyon. The surface is covered by a thick layer of volcanic ash which apparently came from a local extinct volcano in the neighborhood. Chinese men, but long after the forest had been found, had been found. The forest was found in a remote state. We have never before known all these things about the land in which we live.

Capes Shown for Mid-Season Wear

Winsome Garments in All Lengths—Also Adorn New Frocks.

The mid-season map of fashion is given over to capes, short shoulder capes, shawl capes, all-enveloping capes and tweed capes, notes a fashion writer in the Kansas City Star. The cape-back frocks and the short capes on coats that fall just below the waistline hardly could be called new. These have been worn pretty much since last summer, but the little shawl cape that is cut in circular fashion falling just below the waistline in the back and sloping to the fastening at the neck is the smartest of them all. It has a collar, is bordered in fur often times. The cape back is added to the jumper frock. The cape is the piece de resistance of the Palm Beach wardrobe.

The mid-season expression of the cape is long circular capes of wool to be worn above frocks of silk, close at the shoulder and rippling out at the hem. The capelet idea is popular, too. On a frock of the finest black lace posed over pink crepe is a tiny shoulder cape so shaped that it escapes being called a bertha because it caps the shoulders. The circular shoulder cape your mother wore in the '90s may come again.

The cape sleeves in coats have been worn since early fall. While these may not be called distinctly new they are very becoming to the tall figure, but spell certain death to any smart effect on the small woman, particularly if she is inclined to stoutness. The jumper cannot be displaced in these mid-season fashions. More vestee effects are shown than ever before. Smart cuffs are added, the band at the hips is sometimes quilted, a very pretty effect it is, too. The one-piece dresses have the most engaging little tricks.

For instance, there is the bolero in many lengths. Now it is long, down to the hips, or very short, two or three inches below the armhole, or smarter still is the bolero that is long in the back and curves from that point right up to the one-button fastening at the chin, revealing a great expanse of blouse of contrasting shade.

The lace bolero is one of the distinctly new features of evening dress. It is an artistic expression that keeps to the jumper idea in the softest of materials.

New Leather Garters

Like Miniature Belts

Since stays and the rigging which attaches to them have become a negligible quantity in the wardrobe, the round garter is in style. The new metallic ribbons, frothy and glittering, silver and gold on pretty shades of silk, are much used, gathered and knotted. Ostrich feather motifs, hand-painted madonnas, artificial flowers and lace, are popular. Now a decided novelty is out in garters made of leather in the form of little straps with buckles, like miniature belts. They are swifter triffles, much liked by women who go in for sports clothes, and are particularly appropriate with the new sports stockings. The latter grow more extreme as the season of winter sports advances.

Something Different Again

Rabbit of the northern plains gains protection from its enemies because its fur blends inconspicuously into its surroundings. It is extremely appropriate, therefore, that the new little shoes worn beneath the short silk trowsers of the present style, should be made of rabbit's wool, and these little rabbits are warm.

Proud Plaids

To the expert sartorial iron, nothing is impossible. Plain fabrics are so treated with plaids unwieldy as to make them appear striped or checked. The very thin checked or plaided fabrics which are obtained by applying heat of steam and flat fold, have never been achieved before this season.

Come on Heat Conductors

The diamond, which is an insulator for electricity, is probably the best conductor of heat. Crystalline quartz, probably is considered best, but has a heat conductivity of only one-fourth that of a diamond.

VICTIMS THRASH COUSIN BULLIES AFTER 15 YEARS

Waited Until They Grew Up
So They Could Do the Job Right.

Kalamazoo, Mich.—"Just you wait till we're grown up, you big bullies, and we'll knock your blocks off," two small boys, 15 years ago, promised their two cousins who were visiting them at Joliet, Ill.

One night recently the challengers came to Kalamazoo and fulfilled their promise.

Auburn Steele, twenty-four, and his brother Frank, twenty, were locked up in the police station here, charged with assaulting their two cousins, Frank and Guy Warden. Frank, who Auburn declares, was the bully of boyhood days, was so badly beaten he had to be attended by a doctor. Guy fared slightly better.

Blows for Greetings.
The other night the Wardens heard someone open the front door and walk in.

Frank and Guy jumped out of bed to meet the intruders.

Smack! Frank Warden was knocked to the floor by a blow in the face.

"This is your cousin Auburn come to see you," the voice announced.

Smack! Guy Warden took one on the jaw and toppled over.

"And this is your cousin Frank," said another voice in the dark.

In another instant the four cousins were milling about on the floor, striking, kicking, and biting.

Finally one of the Wardens signaled he had enough.

"Water," he cried. "I'm fainting."

Revives With Pail of Water.
There was a pail of water on a table nearby. Cousin Auburn let Cousin Frank have the full contents in the face.

Then the visitors left.
Police found the Wardens' cousins at the Michigan Central station.

"We were on our way to Grand Rapids and had to pass through Kalamazoo," said Auburn. "We decided to let the Wardens up and give them a little kicking we had promised them."

"We have no regrets. They always teased us around when we were kids. It was an old grudge, but they had it coming."

He Stole to Eat, He Says, and Proves It

New York.—Walter Knowles was a hungry seaman. That was the excuse he gave to detectives of the Oak Street station after he had been locked up on a charge of robbery. And when they provided him with food he demonstrated his appetite to them.

He ate three portions of ham and eggs before coming up for air.

Walter who is twenty-one and says he lives at the Seamen's Institute, No. 25 South street, was discovered by Anthony Pulls in his room on the third floor of No. 63 James street.

Walter had some silk handkerchiefs belonging to Pulls, and Pulls struck his head out of the window and shouted for help.

"I haven't had a square meal for two weeks, and I sure was hungry," Walter explained. "So I thought I'd steal something and back it to buy some food with."

Angry Squirrels Lick Bullying Hound Dog

This dog attacked one of the squirrels while it was gathering nuts. Immediately half a dozen other squirrels ran to the rescue. When the battle raged the dog was so badly bitten and scratched that it had to be taken to a veterinarian. The squirrels fled up trees when the police approached.

Gossip Column Suicide

Canadian Kills Two Deer With One Shot

Welland, Ont.—The killing of two deer with one rifle bullet is vouched for by members of the Charter Lake Hunt club, who have just returned from their annual outing in the Pichew River district.

Cecil Fagan, one of the youngest members of the club, is given credit for performing the double kill. A buck, a doe and a fawn stepped out of the woods a short distance from Fagan, who fired. The doe dropped with a broken back and the bullet continued into the head of the buck, which fell dead.

SLEEP-WALKER IS SHOT FOR THIEF

Father Takes Nine-Year-Old Girl for Intruder.

Jersey City, N. J.—Mistaking his sleep-walking daughter, Rose, for a burglar, Anthony Carbone early one morning shot and seriously wounded the child, nine.

The girl sleeps on a cot in the kitchen of the Carbone apartment. The father, mother and three other children occupy adjoining rooms.

Rose arose in her sleep and awoke her father just as she closed the door of the apartment. He thought it was an intruder trying to enter and took a revolver from under his pillow to await the "burglar's" next move.

The child walked to the floor above and knocked on the door of an apartment. Mrs. Anthony Sorrentino answered the knock and saw that the child was sleep-walking.

"Sleep here tonight, Rose," she pleaded.

Sightless eyes stared past the woman's as she answered, "No, I am going back to my bed."

Carbone heard her fumbling with the door and fired blindly.

For a moment there was silence. Carbone peered out into the corridor. There lay his child.

His house, which he built himself, cost $100 and he takes it with him when he moves by dragging it into the Detroit river and towing it to a new location.

He lives alone and is never lonesome; he wouldn't trade places with anyone in the country.

The river brings him free firewood and the fish he sells for a livelihood; also he says the river gives him health. In the fall there is duck hunting; in the winter he traps muskrats.

Being a Hero Costs Duke His Pocketbook

London.—Being a hero cost the duke of Manchester his pocketbook, filled with many gold notes.

The duke saw a man break a jeweler's window. He caught the fellow and called police. A great crowd gathered and cheered the duke. That personage bowed deeply, entered a cab, and prepared to ride away.

Then the jeweler came running from his shop, shouting that in the confusion an accomplice of the would-be thief had robbed him of $200. But that's not all.

Once in the cab the duke reached for his pocketbook. Then he found that a pickpocket had paid his respects while the crowd was cheering him for his heroism.

Television Claimed by French Inventor

Paris.—That television has been realized is the claim of Edouard Belin, an inventor. He says he has demonstrated this by a machine which he has shown to the French Photographic society. The machine consists of a 20-sided mirror which turns at the rate of 40,000 revolutions per minute in front of a ray from an electric arc before which is placed the image to be transmitted. The mirror is oscillated by an ingenious device across the beam of light and the original image is reproduced.

Hangs Self Because Wife Won at Checker

Pittsburgh, Penn.—Inability to defeat his wife at checkers caused the suicide of William Kapler of Hella street, according to reports to the coroner.

Kapler and his wife played checkers for two hours, the husband going down to defeat each time. Mrs. Kapler said that finally her husband threw the checkerboard to the floor, went into the bathroom, and locked the door. When he failed to answer her calls, she summoned neighbors, and they found the man had hanged himself.

Two With One Shot

Warren, Ind.—Fremont Fisher, senior horse-race bidder for the Warren-Madison horse-bait team proved that he still has a good eye when he killed two rabbits with one shot from his gun. Fisher aimed at one cottontail and another ran into the line of his aim. Both fell.

Sea-Wings

An Italian liner is to be equipped with parachutes for passengers in a hurry to reach the shore. Tying the one from the suit coat seems to be the simplest in the way of reducing the dimensions of ocean travel.

Remember

"Way back when" the retail lumber yard was the most inaccessible and usually the poorest looking establishment in a town.

TODAY the progressive lumber yard is found in a well located part of town, with well equipped store room and facilities.

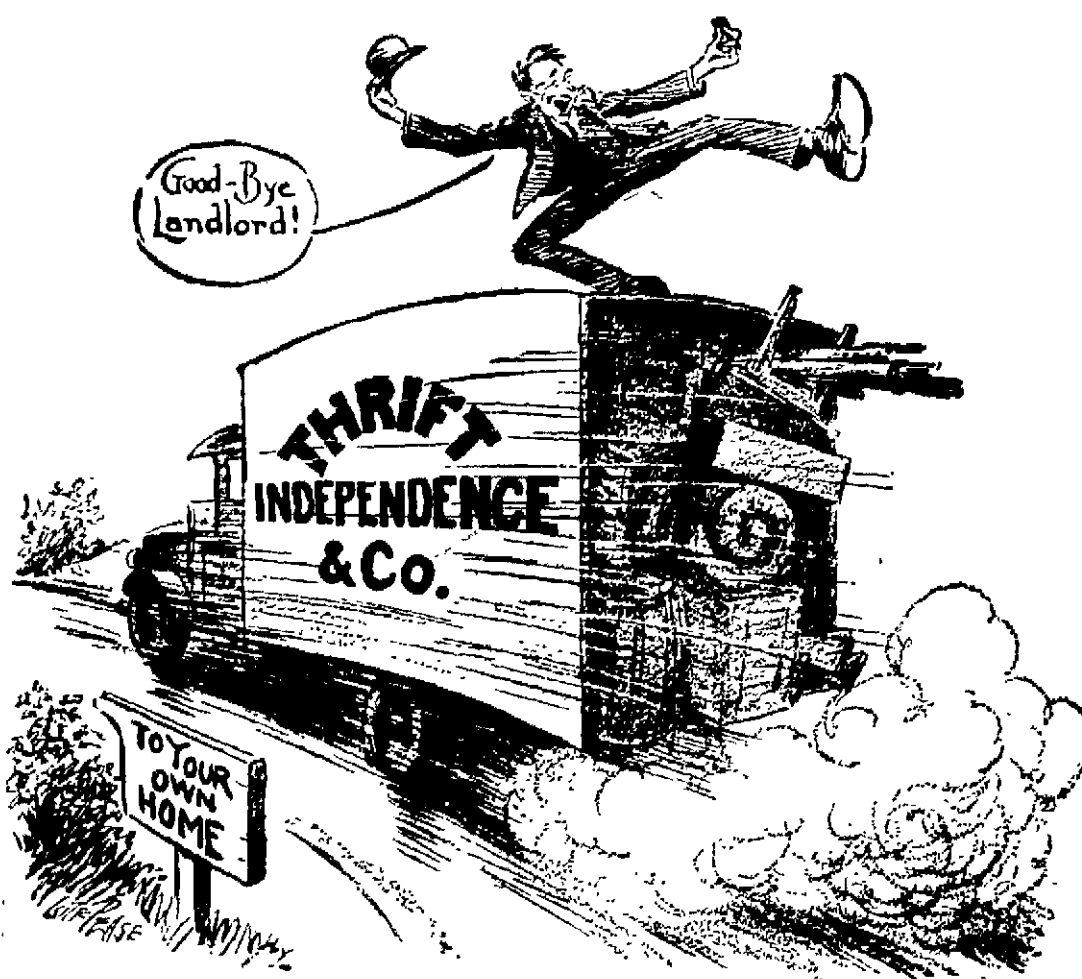

We have stopped selling pieces, and are selling homes. It does not require much imagination to realize at once why we are finding the selling of the home idea pleasant and profitable. There is just one way we can be sure that our customers to whom we sell homes will continue to be satisfied with them,—SELL THEM QUALITY MATERIALS.

Every effort is exercised to make the quality of our material so good that our customers are bound to be satisfied, and we are finding that this policy helps us to secure new customers and obtain repeat orders from our old customers.

When The Van Pulls Out For Your Very Own Home

One thing is almost certain when you buy a home. A bank, a building and loan association or some other responsible financing organization has helped you realize a life dream.

Few homes are entirely paid for when they are bought. This is one time when going into debt is a good plan. Happy, contented men and women are buying homes, sacrificing for homes, paying for homes month by month—becoming better citizens by assuming property obligations.

No honest effort is too hard when you buy a home of your own.

Today is Own Your Home Day—the fifth day of National Thrift Week for Success and Happiness.

"Home Sweet Home"

From the dawn of creation mankind has dreamed and poets sung of Home Sweet Home and now in the midst of Winter we are offering for Spring a large assortment of homes.

It is a well known fact that satisfied customers are the best advertising. We attribute our success and increase in business to this fact, and that the past year of 1925 has been, by far, the best we have ever had.

If you are a home or farm purchaser, a speculator or looking for a business opportunity or an investment, we can offer you expert service and advice. We aim to please you, and not to have you if you cannot select your ideal property from our large listing.

If you are considering the purchase of real estate this Spring, we can give you better service and perhaps negotiate a better price now than would be possible later when the big rush comes on.

"Make YOUR Dreams Come True."

If you have a reasonable amount of cash, we can finance any real estate transaction and the balance can be paid as rent.

Flare or More Severe Lines
Are in Fashion Picture;
Hats Are Small.

The redingote of masculine cut, which was so universal as to be almost a uniform in the fall, has given way largely to the flared coat with a petal-like skirt section which does not swing but undulates. For those who prefer the more severe lines, notes a New York fashion correspondent, there still remains the tweed overcoat cut on boyish lines with a big shawl collar and large leather buttons.

When mannish topcoats are worn this winter the proper type of neckwear from present indications will consist of heavy silk scarfs very similar to those worn by men. These may be of plaid as wild as any highland chieftain ever dared to be, with combinations such as brown, dull yellow and blue-green.

Any woman can put two and two together, but when she chooses a winter street hat is only necessary to combine a small felt shape with narrow grosgrain ribbon. The hat should have the usual fold on either side and the brims should be small, flexible, tilted in front and unbound. If character enough is not produced by this combination, pearl or rhinestone pins may be added.

One winsome coat is in mulberry velours cloth, trimmed with squirrel is blue fox shade. The flared panel at the back, with its fur border, finds a charming echo in the bell-shaped cuffs.

One French cloth designer has returned to the straightline, but only in the motifs which characterize his fabrics for winter sports. These fabrics, known as poplin-kasha, are decorated with a series of short and long straight lines, arranged horizontally. Some of these series of lines are close together and some far apart. Their colorings range through the gray, tan and beige shades with white lines.

Few women set out for the land of the royal and the itching palms, located south of the frost belt, without purchasing one of the new large bags made of tiny beads. These bags are as soft and flexible as silk itself and are developed in charming color designs. They are large enough to hold even a phreatic hawk roll and expensive enough to require one.

No Definite Conclusion as to Waistline Status

There has probably been no fashion detail that has been more widely discussed than the position of the waistline. That no definite conclusion as to its status has been reached is evident in the diversity of this feature of the modern costume.

In some models there is a distinct indication of the natural line—occasionally it even appears an inch or two above. Again it drops to a position between the waist and the hip line, and quite as often it does not appear at all.

There are many instances where the effect of a raised waistline is achieved by the cleverness with which the trimming and decoration are handled. Pockets often help to produce the new line. Godets that extend upward from the circular skirt tend toward accentuating the effect. Triple or double belts, which may or may not be worn, are one way of solving the problem of waistline.

Far-Trimmed Coats Popular

Fur-trimmed cloth coats are much in evidence and are worn by the smartest women in Paris. One of interest is fashioned of dreyon in a tone of slate gray which is matched by the collar and cuffs of fox. The bolero effect at back and the flat flounces at each side are significant details that indicate the trend toward more intricate lines and decorations. A printed silk lining is patterned in the new geometrical designs.

KEMP'S BALSAM

Jade, Corals and Carnelians Are Among the Colored Jewels to Replace Pearls in Paris.

Costume jewelry is as important this as last season, with a difference. Instead of dismissing one's obligations in this direction by loading oneself down with pearls one is forced to consider colors, occasions and types. Costume jewelry must be distinctive.

The Parisienne always finds an occasion to wear tortoise shell. It is "a classic" with her. Ball earrings, long chains, cigarette cases, holders and ventilators, or umbrella tops are among the approved uses. She finds also occasion to still wear pearls, and is fond of large earrings which are worn either on the lobe of the ear or immediately below it. Her real interest is in corals, jades, carnelians and jewels which have a history.

Even the newest wrist watches are colored, having intricately set and, of course, tiny watches, in which bars of enamel or colored stones are combined with pearls or diamonds. Diamonds have a way of appearing in company with colored stones, this being especially true of bracelets which have widened. Gold Venetian beads, filigree or enamel, and plain dull gold beads are often chosen now instead of pearls. Chains of carnelians and gold, or of jade and gold are very smart. All the newest chains show a tendency to length.

Bar pins seemingly fasten the gown at the armpits, always to one side, for, of course, when one wears a long chain, a brooch on the bodice is one ornament too many. Many brooches are enormous and are in buckle or clasp types and still others are oval or in some formation rather than in the bar pin shape. One still finds exquisitely fine headed bars on jeweled or gold frames but these are only for high days and holy days. Leather bars being the usual choice for street wear, always monogrammed, usually in one corner.

PALENTOWN. Jan. 21.—Alfred Pallen is getting better after his illness. He was attended by Dr. Raymond of Olive Terrace.

The recent examinations for pupils in this district were held at Kerhonkson Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Those who took them from this school were Burton Harwood, Clarence Reeves and Mildred Traver.

A party was held at the home of Homer Traver Saturday night. Games and music were the pastimes. At midnight Mrs. Traver and daughter, Mrs. Shuster, served a sumptuous dinner, followed by pickles, cake and candies.

Frank Beemer is employed by Homer Traver helping with some work at his work shop. A number from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. Harry Krom at Kerhonkson on Sunday. Much sympathy is extended to her parents, brothers and sisters. Harold Krom has brought a Ford car from Kerhonkson in Kingston. James Pallen has bought a Ford car.

Best Treated Externally

CONSTANT dosing upsets little stomachs. Modern doctors prefer to treat children's colds externally—with VapoRub. They simply rub it on the throat and chest at bedtime.

It acts two ways at once: Like the old-fashioned poultice "drawing out" the soreness and pain, at the same time.

Like a modern vapor lamp, the body heat releases the vapors in the form of medicated steam which are inhaled all night long. This loosens the phlegm and clears the congested air passages.

Results yield by morning to this direct action.

DOCTOR HUFF was a tall, angular splinter who might, at fifty, have been a really good looking woman, had she not spent so many hours of her days in the acid-laden atmosphere of the chemistry laboratory. As head of her department in Kingston College for Women she was much more interested in the least test-tube or retort in her laboratory than in the most promising of students.

John Maxwell, Ph. D., was likewise entitled to the cognomen of "Doctor" or "Professor," but he assured you that he preferred being called "Mr." He reigned over the botany laboratory which, with the chemistry laboratory occupied the top floor of the science building of Kingston College. The specimens in his laboratory, the tiny shoots and sprouting seeds that flourished under his genial care, interested him immensely, but not so much as the young women who came to listen to his lectures.

Sometimes there was an especially winsome girl among them. There was especially one in each new class of sophomores who took his course as one of their prescribed second-year subjects. This year it was Miss Allen—Betty Allen, and because her name began with an A and the students sat in alphabetical order she sat before him in the first row. Three days a week he saw her there in class and was vividly conscious of her charming young personality for the entire hour. He had talked to Betty once—they had been part of a group of which Doctor Huff was a member that had quite accidentally been drawn together in one end of the college reception room at a tea given by the faculty to the student body. Doctor Huff and John Maxwell had both attended only because it was part of their duty as professors.

Castling about for something to talk about, they spoke of roses—there were some lovely pink roses on one of the tea tables. It seemed to be a subject of common interest. Betty said that in the garden in her home there were some lovely Diana roses, a variety with which her father's gardener had had remarkable success. Doctor Huff remarked that if she ever had a rose garden of her own—adding to herself that she prayed heaven that time would never come—it would be filled with no other variety of rose. She liked them because in spite of cultivation they had so many thorns.

Then came the winter with the charming Betty to distract him for three days a week. Doctor Huff became more and more saturated with the acid atmosphere of her laboratory. Betty Allen, who had taken a course in chemistry as a sophomore elective, sat in a front seat in Doctor Huff's lecture room, but Doctor Huff seldom saw her—anyone else—since her gaze as she lectured was always narrowly directed to the test-tubes and beakers on the desk before her.

Then came the last weeks of May, days that brought a queer restlessness rearing into the veins of John Maxwell, and then one day when he entered his office he saw on his desk a vase containing a glorious bunch of roses—Diana roses, he saw on second sight. The fragrance of them almost unnerved him. It brought so vividly before him the thought and image of charming Betty Allen. He could see on close examination that these were no ordinary specimens either—they were the result of expert floriculture. Of course they came from Betty Allen's garden.

Three weeks passed, and every two or three days there was a fresh bunch of the roses. John Maxwell had decided to wait until college had closed and then see Betty alone and tell her the state of his heart.

Then one day there was a note beneath the roses on his desk. He tore the envelope open without noticing that it was not addressed in Betty's writing. It ran:

Dr. Doctor Maxwell—
This is the tenth time I have been forced to return your roses. I thought you would take the hint the first time. In the first place, I have made it a practice never to accept the attentions of any of my associates here in college, in the second place leaving them anonymously seems a very undignified thing to do, and in the third place I am subject to rose cold, and while I like to look at Diana roses I do not like to smell them.

Yours truly, BETTY ALLEN.

By a fortunate coincidence Betty Allen appeared shyly on the threshold of John's private office just at that juncture. He had hardly been able to figure out just what Doctor Huff had meant when Betty read:

"These are the roses I left on Doctor Huff's desk. I have been leaving them every day so, because she said they were her favorites and she never even said thank you. And she gave them to you."

"Yes," said John Maxwell, unwilling to show the ridiculous letter even to Betty. "She says they are her roses. She knows how I love these roses, but she doesn't know how much I love you."

Betty blushed and with eyes cast down, took the letter that John slipped out to her. "I've been told," she said about you all over," she said "and I would much rather have brought you the roses—didn't I thought I would have lost you?"

And even now Doctor Maxwell Huff says that John Maxwell took Betty Allen as a hint to the wounded heart.

EDUCATIONAL PLAN BACKED BY LEGION

Plans are definitely under way to arrange through the American Legion for an interchange of college students between the United States and each of the eight principal foreign countries with which this nation was associated in the World War.

Efforts are being made to obtain at least eight scholarships in American universities and colleges to be used by students from these foreign countries. It was said at national headquarters of the Legion. Similar arrangements are being made by each of these countries.

Legion officials, according to National Adjutant James F. Barton, expect to have the plan in operation by the opening of school next fall so that the first exchange will be made at that time.

Students to be exchanged will be chosen through an essay contest on some subject of international affairs. The contests will be carried on in their respective countries by veterans' organizations represented in Fidac, the interallied veterans' federation.

The nine countries entering through their veterans' associations into the arrangement are, besides the United States: Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Great Britain, Italy, Yugo-Slavia, Poland and Rumania.

Details of the plan have been laid before the national officers of the Legion by Lemuel Bolles, past national adjutant and vice chairman and secretary of the Legion delegation to the Fidac congress at Rome, Italy. The plan was worked out in a definite way at that congress.

The cost of a scholarship is estimated by Mr. Bolles at approximately $1,500, plus tuition. Each student is to be obligated to give talks, upon his return from his scholarship, to the school children of his country about the nation where he studied.

An annual award of merit will be given to that educational institution of each of the nine countries, according to Mr. Bolles, which has included in its curriculum a course of study which best promotes international understanding.

Letters are to be interchanged among grade-school children, under another plan which is to be carried out. Awards will be given to those letters from each country which are deemed to promote international understanding in the most original way.

Efforts are being made under Fidac leadership to have Armistice day declared a legal holiday in each of the nine nations. Fidac will suggest a uniform program for the observance of the day each year.

Half Million Dollars in Legion Relief Work

During the past year nearly half a million dollars was spent by the various units and departments of the American Legion auxiliary in assisting the Legion in relief work among disabled veterans of the World War and their families.

Reports received from 32 auxiliary departments show that they had spent, including the value of clothing and food donated, $388,755. Mrs. Hazel Workman, who is chairman of the auxiliary's national rehabilitation committee, estimates that the total for the entire organization will approximate $500,000.

Nearly 200,000 visits were made during the year to sick and disabled veterans. In the departments reporting, 3,955 families were assisted by gifts of cash, clothing and food.

Each month $300 was paid to the Legion for the maintenance of children who are being cared for at the Auxiliary cottage at Otter Lake, Mich. This cottage was opened last winter, as part of the Legion's children's bill of fare.

In each hospital where a number of Iowa veterans are hospitalized the Iowa department of the auxiliary has formed an "Iowa Club." Iowa auxiliary members act as "mothers" to the members of the club.

Kentucky and Indiana departments are co-operating in maintaining a hostess house at the hospital at Dawson Springs, Ky. Relatives of hospitalized men are housed here while visiting them. A nursery is maintained to care for children of visiting wives of veterans.

Louisiana auxiliary members are doing a very unusual and very effective piece of work at the fever colony at Carville in that state. Various projects for entertainment and relief are carried on.

Auxiliary members in Minnesota loaned to trainees of the United States veterans' bureau during the year $11,535. Cows and chickens purchased for agricultural training by the department cost more than $10,000.

These are examples of the work which is being carried on by the Legion auxiliary to assist veterans who were disabled during the war. "Every state has accomplished many splendid things in rehabilitation," according to Mrs. Workman.

Business Girls' Club Supper

Owing to the Shriners' Ball in the evening, there was not the usual large attendance at the Wednesday evening supper given by the Business Girls' Club at the Y. W. C. A. but a genuinely good time was had in addition to the excellent supper. Miss Salzman, the chairman, announced that next week the speaker at the supper would be Miss Nance who would give a health talk, and the supper on the following Wednesday evening would be enlivened by all sorts of stunts put over by the girls. Following the supper there was a hearty and keen discussion of the best way for the Business Girls' Club to be of real service in the community. Some very worth while suggestions were made and will be put into effect when carefully worked out.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 21.—Railroad and industrial stocks advanced to slightly higher market values today in dull and irregular trading, in which the professionals were the moving spirits. The retreat of the bears was more pronounced in some of the high priced industrial and specialties, but liquidation was quite heavy for the account of bullish interests who came to the "support" of the market when the bears were riding rough shod over the speculative list on Wednesday.

Director of Cast Iron Pipe fulfilled predictions by placing the common stocks on a 10 per cent annual basis and announcing earnings at the rate of $23.84 a share last year. After an early decline to 191 the stock snapped back to 197 1/2.

Bearish traders were not ready to relinquish their attacks on the motor and industrial stocks. Higher price levels were seized by them as a convenient vantage point for increasing their lines of short sales, confident in their ability to cover at lower prices later in the year. A good many stocks made their best showing at the opening of the market and were never able thereafter to repeat the opening prices of the market.

Armory Thronged For Shriners' Ball

Colorful Spectacle, Entertainment, Specialties, Two Good Orchestras and Plenty of Dancing Features—Benefit for Industrial Home.

In every way the 1926 Shriners' Ball was the most remarkable of all the balls that this popular organization has given at the armory for the benefit of the Industrial Home of Kingston. They had out their biggest crowd, the decorations were indeed unique, they put on an unusual program and the music for dancing was remarkably good.

It was stated that considerably over 1,600 tickets were taken in at the door, the proceeds of which added to the sale of refreshments under the patronage of the board of governors of The Industrial Home, and the returns from many tickets not turned in, must mean for the institution of which Kingstonians are so justly proud and grateful for a fine sum of money.

The decorations were decidedly impressionistic. The walls were covered and there swung from overhead fantastic shaped and designed banners and pennants of red, blue, yellow and white, while the big overhead lights were shaded with streamers of green and pale yellow, running lengthwise of the drill shed the same green and yellow streamers were arranged over the sides of the building where seats were placed, in canopy fashion, while the gallery and refreshment stands were prettily decorated with the yellow and green.

Early in the evening Zucca's orchestra gave a promising concert that delighted everybody and called forth repeated applause. Later their music for dancing, alternating with that of Jimmy Connors' orchestra, afforded the host of dancers music to which it was a joy to dance. The program included several big variety acts from leading theatres and cabarets of Broadway. The first number was given by Virginia Pearson in a picturesque costume dance. This was followed by a number given by a most versatile young woman, "Rosa of the Violin," a Keith feature. This entertainer played the violin, sang, whistled, and danced in a manner to call out ecstatic applause.

Corinne Marsh, a late feature of George M. Cohan's "Little Nellie Kelly" company, was peppy and pretty and an amazing dancer. Probably the most wonderful number on the program, over which the audience held its breath, was that given by the Donald Sisters, two very attractive girls who athletic performances offered an exhibition of strength and grace rarely seen. They were given a most enthusiastic reception.

A spirited and more or less athletic duet dance was given by Santy and Norton, recently stars with Cohan's "Rise of Rosie O'Reilly," and later they gave a humorous exhibition of "The Bowery Dance."

Two other thrillers were a dance given by Corinne Marsh, costumed in fringe and feathers, and a Snake Dance given by Virginia Pearson. So great was the crowd that early in the evening dancing was a bit crowded but not too crowded to delight the hearts of the members of the Industrial Home board of governors who realized that in addition to the colorful and beautiful spectacle—for there were numberless beautiful gowns in evidence—many needs and comforts of the children at the Industrial Home could be cared for with the money so generously raised by the Shriners.

Boys Held for Stealing Auto

Caught on Pine Grove Avenue With Chevrolet Sedan—Battery on Car Had "Gone Dead" and It Refused to Run—Case Adjourned to Monday.

Jesse Crispell, 17 years old, of No. 16 Hudson street, and George Hicks, 16 years old, of No. 73 Spruce street, were arraigned before Judge Shufeldt in police court this morning on a charge of stealing a Chevrolet sedan on Pine Grove avenue. The hearing was adjourned to Monday and bail was fixed at $1,000 each.

Tuesday evening Jev Every and Joseph Mooney saw the car being driven in such a manner that it attracted their attention. They investigated and reported to the police which led to the arrest of both boys. The battery in the auto had "gone dead" and the boys were unable to get the car to run when arrested.

Van Keuren Not Called "Spooks"

Boys Also Deny Aggravating Saucerettes Road Resident by Throwing Clam Shells Before He Threatened Them.

Fred DuBols, indicted for driving a car while intoxicated, changed his former plea of not guilty to that of crime and entered a plea of guilty to reckless driving in county court this morning. Andrew J. Cook appeared for him. He paid a fine of $100.

The case of The People against W. Van Keuren of the town of Ulster, indicted for assault, was continued. It is alleged that Mr. Van Keuren threatened one Edward Miller and a group of boys with a gun on August 7, 1924. That day Mr. Miller, who conducts a real estate development across the road from the Van Keuren place, had given a clambake to a number of boys who had been working for him during the summer in peddling bills and other work. The lads after the baky were sailing clambakes through the air. Mr. Van Keuren was on his porch across the road at the time and the complaining witnesses contend that although they had not been throwing shells toward the Van Keuren place, still he went into the house and came out with a gun and threatened Mr. Miller.

The lads denied on the stand that they had thrown shells toward the Van Keuren place or called Mr. Van Keuren "Spooks" or other names.

Judge Jenkins and Floyd W. Powell appear for Mr. Van Keuren.

POMPEY FAVORED AS STAR OF TURF

First Big Test of Colts Comes in Running of Kentucky Derby.
The two-year-olds of 1925 are an exceptionally good lot and speculation as to how they will perform as three-year-olds is already on, with the consensus of opinion favoring Pompey as the prospective star of next year.
The first big tests of the colts next year will be the Kentucky derby and Preakness stake next May, after which will follow with brief intervals the derbies to be run at Fairmount Park, Latonia and Chicago. The entries for each of these stakes will be practically the same and the best in training will be nominated for all of these events, the field at Fairmount being practically the same as that at Louisville, making the race over the river a renewal of the Kentucky derby.
writes Robert J. Boylan in the St. Louis Globe Democrat.
A St. Louis handicapper has selected the following seven colts as the best prospective starters in the Kentucky Fairmount, Latonia and Chicago derbies, and the odds quoted are now being offered on the Kentucky derby.
Pompey 4 2
Carter 4 2
Bubbling Over 4 2
Flight of Time 12 5
Chance Play 15 7
Crusader 20 10
Mars 30 15
Of the above colts Pompey is the leading winner of the year with $121,680 to his credit. He is by Sun Broad Lynx, one of the best race-makers of her time, winner of numerous stakes, including the Latonia championship at a mile and three-quarters in 1920. Pompey started ten times this year, won seven of his races, was second twice and unplaced once.
Carter was the sensational winner of late fall stakes in Maryland and Kentucky and finished second as a money winner with $113,048. He is a half-brother to Single Foot, being by Wildair—Virginia L. He started eighteen times, won eight of his races, was second twice, third twice, and six times unplaced. His sire, Wildair, is a son of Broomstick and his dam is a daughter of McGee.
Bubbling Over was a hard-luck colt this year because he was not eligible to several eastern stakes that he might have won. At that he won $19,925 in his nine races, of which he won seven, was once second, once third and never out of the money. In the Pimlico Futurity Carter beat him a nose, but had five pounds the best of the weights. Bubbling Over races in the colors of the Idle Hour farm.
Flight of Time did not develop until late in the season and started eleven times, winning four of his races, was second four times, third once and twice unplaced. His earnings for the year were $28,265. Much of his earnings came through his winning the Breeders' Futurity at Lexington, the last race he ran this year.

Suzanne Is the Greatest Player

According to Critics of the Tennis Court—Helen Wills Considered Inferior in Footwork, Accuracy and Court Tactics.
New York, Jan. 21.—Cautious inquiry among tennis officials, players of ranking ability and authoritative critics today revealed the fact that, almost to a man, they privately feared the worst for Helen Wills when she meets Mlle Lenglen, if at all. Publicly, however, their opinions on this somewhat delicate subject seemed to be strictly private.
Not one of them would agree to be quoted; in fact, they declined to discuss the matter until the writer assured them that he would name no names. Personal regard for the little American champion was one of the reasons for their reticence. Another, the writer suspects, was that no one likes to be caught singing the litany at a wedding. Miss Wills might win, after all.
However, the expert evidence was that Suzanne Lenglen is the greatest woman tennis player in the world and that Helen Wills, therefore, is not.
Major J. F. Rendell, one of the British professionals on the Riviera, broke out in a statement yesterday in which he declared Lenglen would win because she had "too much technique."
The America nexperts don't abide with that thought. Apparently, it is not to be a technical victory.
It is to be a victory, they say of superior footwork, accuracy and court tactics.
Miss Wills, it seems, cannot hope to match her court covering ability with that of Mlle Lenglen. The latter is supposed to be a human gazelle and, with leaps and dashes, returns everything that is not knocked into an usher's lap. Helen therefore, will not be able to conduct a back court duel with any degree of success, they declare.
They also point to the fact that she doesn't happen to be particularly fast and that she does quite a lot of running on her heels. It is understood that this is not the system that made Charley Paddock what he is today.
As a matter of fact, if the experts' claims are true, Helen not only will lose if she attempts to roam the base line with Suzanne but she must meet failure if she tries to storm the net; in other words, a heads I win tails you lose proposition. They say Helen lacks the speed to get to the net before Suzanne drops one at her feet.
They also declared it "no contest" in the matter of accurate stroking. It seems that Suzanne either wears her opponents down with unceasing control or with sheer brilliancy shoots them while they're happy.
However, one factor is overlooked, to wit: The size and general serenity of Helen's competitive heart. She happens to be one of the best fighters American sport has known. It is possible that this strictly human element may have more to do with the result than all the tricks in Suzanne's bag.

HOW TO GET RID OF MUSCLE-LAMENESS

Beach Patrolman Advises this Treatment
After exposure to dampness and cold, and after hard exercise, muscles will stiffen up and get lame.
A beach patrolman at Atlantic City writes that he has found this treatment the quickest and most effective way to take out the stiffness and pain "just put on a little of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing results like Sloan's."
Hundreds of letters like this tell of the wonderful relief from muscular pain that Sloan's gives.
Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden pain, it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes out stiffness and drives away the aches and pains.
Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—25 cents.

Sport Notes

The women's world record for the running broad jump is 17 feet 1/2 inch, held by Helen Kihy, a Chicago girl.
The greatest sport performance in 1925 was Pavo Nurmi's two-mile run in 8 minutes 24 1/2 seconds.
Practice for the New York Yankees baseball team at St. Petersburg on March 10th was somewhat later than in other years.
Of the 20 football players fatally injured on the field last year, only one was a college player. There were 42 others reported seriously hurt.
Harvard's track team will not now leave for the Penn relay at Philadelphia next April, performing a week of training in the warm climate of Williamsburg, Va.
Pauline, Spanish beauty, might have been known as the "Tennessee Tiger" as a record of 22 knockouts in 21 matches. She weighs 200 pounds on the anvil of the United States, the hope of meeting Jack Dempsey.

The second series will be between the St. James Versatile Ball Bouncers and Captain Fridell's Wurtz Street aggregation.
As these will be the first games for both of the Baptist teams it is difficult to predict their strength, but good games are expected.

Greenwell Is Leading Scorer

Ernie Greenwell, star forward of the Clinton Avenue Independents, tops the scoring honors of the Senior Church League with a total of 46 points, since the start of the inter-church basketball race in early December.
R. Chipp, also of the Independents, is in second place with 36, and R. Whiston in third place with 48.
In the list of the first ten highest scorers in the league up-to-date, the Independents or Clinton "A" team, has three representatives. The Clinton "B," Presbyterian and Reformer aggregations each have two players in the first ten highest point categories.
The list is as follows:

Schoeter Still Leads.
New York, Jan. 21.—Although each of the principals won a block of the 1,200 point match at 18.2 ball-line billiards, Jake Schoeter, champion, entered the final lap today with a lead of $57 to 421 over Willie Hopper, former title holder. The match will be concluded with blocks of 200 points this afternoon and tonight.
In an effort to keep the spotlight up to the high standard that has prevailed for a number of years, both the leagues have strings on several promising amateurs.
Plans used as cushions on a Continental golf course go through a wire fence course of training, part of which we must assume is learning to shoot at the proper moment.
Effort to stop all betting at two tracks in Maryland and to have racing commission declared unconstitutional will be made in a petition to be filed in United States District court.
First Seen at Exposition
Two of the greatest inventors of modern times, the telephone and X-ray, made their first appearance at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876.

End of Slavery in Cuba

Although the fact is not well known, slavery existed in Cuba a number of years after it was abolished here. On December 23, in 1870, the Spanish home government passed a bill finally abolishing it.
